PROHIBITION THE ONLY REMEDY. SPEECHES AT YESTERDAY'S TEMPERANCE MEET

INGS-AN OREGON REMINISCENCE, An unusually large audience was present at the meeting of the American Temperance Union in Chickering Hall yesterday afternoon. The seats were all filled, and many stood in the aisless during the exercises. The Rev. Dr. J. M. Worrall, pastor of the Thirteenth Street Presbyterian Church, delivered an address upon prohibition. He spoke in part as follows:

part as follows:

There was a time in my life when I did not look with favor upon what is called the prohibition movement. I considered it ill advised and out of place. Time, however, has shown me that prohibition is the only means we have in our favor of crushing out the liquor traffic. If men persist in frampling upon what is most sacred and dear to the heart of the American, his wife and children, what is there left for him to do but to drive such men out of the country. This is just what the liquor men are doing to day. We want fiberty here, but it must be of the right elamp. The people of every nation have the right to defend themselves against evil. The rum-sellers are the men who are sowing the seeds of evil among the youth of the land. They make a profit of eight cents on every glass of fiquor they sell. There is a petition now before Congress from the figuor dealers asking that a law shall be passed prohibiting forever the passage of a prohibitory and the liquor traffic, and it must go. God bless the paper that stands by the right as often as This Tribenedoes. [Applause.]

WESTERN DRESSED BEEF.

WESTERN DRESSED BEEF.

At the regular meeting of the Central Labor Union which was held yesterday in Odd Fellows' Hall, at the Bowery and Second-st., a communication was received from the Cigar-makers' Protective Union, of Cincinnati, informing the Central Labor Union of the lockout and requesting that it should prevent, as far as possible, the sending of men from here to Cincinnati. The cabinet makers reported that they had gained an advance in wages without resorting to a strike. The silk ribbon weavers reported that they had made a compromise with their employers, and that the strike was at an end. The trunkmakers also reported the settlement of their strike. Delegates from the Eastern Butchers' Union asserted that the shipment of beef slanghtered in the West was materially injuring their business and driving them out of employment. They said that the beef butchered in the West was chemically prepared so as to prevent if from spoiling, and that most of it was so strongly impregnated with ether that it was dangerous to health. It was resolved to inquire into the matter. A delegation of women from the Sociologic Society asked that a committee be appointed to consult with that society as to the best means of bringing about a system of industrial co-peration. The committee was appointed.

A meeting of the striking cigar-makers was held yesterday in Bohemian Hall. It was reported that Straiton & Storm bad sent to the picket cemmittee a scale of prices, and said that if they could find the price list of any firm that was higher, that the firm would return the old scale and advance prices twent.—five cents a thousand. When a higher scale was presented the firm refused to recognize the committee.

HOW LIFE-SAVING STATIONS ARE BUILT.

HOW LIFE-SAVING STATIONS ARE BUILT.

It has been found necessary to make important alterations in and additions to the United States Life-Saving Stations on the coast of New-Jersey. These include a new station at Chadwick's Square Beach. The bids for making the alterations in the existing stations have been received at Washington, and Contractor Cox at Barnegat will probably receive the contract. There is little nonsense about the building of a life-saving station. The contractor is obliged to provide at his own cost all the apparatus, materials and labor necessary to the construction of the entire work as embraced in the specifications, even including items in the drawings which may be omitted from the writing. All the workmanship and material must be of the best quality, and the contractor mist give his personal superintendence to the work. No san timber is allowed. The foundations are of sound locust or cedar posts, the sills are sound white 6 by 8 inches in cross-section. The floor joists, studding and rafters are of white pine and the clapbeards of sprince or hemlock, with a roof of pine flooring. I inch thick, tongued and grooved on the projecting parts; the remainder of the roof being of hemlock. The chunneys must have no soft brick in them, and the hardware has to be of the best quality. The flagstafi on the view station at Chadwick's Square Beach is to be made in two parts. The lower mast is to be of white pine, one foot across at the heel, seven inches at the head and forty-six feet long. The topmast of sprince will be twenty feet long, six inches across at the becl and three and one-half inches at the head. The repairs to be made to the existing stations are important, because they involve the refitting of the stations in accordance with the maxims which have been derived from the rough experience of the last lew years.

FATAL PLAY WITH A REVOLVER.

While Dennis Riley, age thirty, of No. 207 Fifteenthest. Brooklyn, was making a visit at the house of John Cassidy, No. 476 Sixth-ave., Brooklyn, vesterday afternoon, in company with Miss Celia Renney, age seventeen, of No. 476 Prospectarye, he playfully pointed a revolver at her. It was accidentally discharged and she was instantly killed, the bullet entering her forehead. Miss Mary Cassidy, age seventeen, was in the room with them. Riley had taken out the revolver and first playfully pointed at raying that he would mesmerize her. She put up her hands and cried "Dou't." He then funcid the nuzzle of the revolver upon Miss Remey with a similar remark, and pulled the frigger, supposing the chambers to heempty. Without the utterance of a word the girlfell to the floor dead, filley had paid some attentions to the girl he killed, and they were on the most friendly terms. The revolver which Riley had was four-chambered, and three of the chambers were empty, which led him to suppose that they all were. He was arrosted by Detective Stollsworthy and locked up to await the result of the Coroner's inquost.

While the lad was engaged at the blackboard, a boy occupying the seat behind him either fixed his sharpened slate penell between the slats of Rolla Coleman's seat, or it rolled down and became fastened in the slats, point upwards. When the boy returned from the blackboard he sait down and sprang up shricking. The teacher of the class found that the child was seriously mjured and sent him home. After a consultation of six physicians an operation was performed and a piece of pencil three inches long was removed from the bladder. Association. The spenker of the afternoon was exGovernor Addison C. Gibbs, of Oregon, who deferribed his impressions of the temperance question from a tour of the West. In closing his address, he said:

Dectors of divinity are not always the first to move in the right direction; politicians are not always the leaders;
it is the masses of the people who know best. They are demanding prohibition now, and the press is coming to recognize the demand. Never fail to vote right on this question. I do not mean, vote with a third party. We tried that in Oregon, and only succeeded in defeating

John McGonnell, the leader of the gang, who was seen in company with Kennedy before the attack, was arrested. He is a notorious criminal and has served a term in the penitentiary.

The temperance agitation in New-Jersey is extending to Jersey City. The American Temperance Union held a "temperance rally" last night in Franklin Hall at which the demon rum was vigorously attacked. At the same time it was being attacked with equal vigor by thirsty customers in a liquor store down stairs. W. E. Greenwood, president of the Union, presided. Speeches were made by the president, J. B. Gibbs and others. Mr. Gibbs thought that Jersey City was worse than Sodom and Gomorrah.

FINDING AS A BUSINESS.

FINDING AS A BUSINESS.

From The St James's Gazette.

A company of a very odd character has just been formed at Liege. It is called the "Eureka," and its object is to provide facilities for finding lost objects left in trains and cabs. The annual subscription is to be the modest sam of two frames and a half. The name and address of each subscriber will be registered against a number, and that number he will have engraved or otherwise marked upon the objects which ne is atraid of losting. Then, if the precious article should get lost, the finder is especial to send it to the office of the company, who will ascertain from their books to whom it belongs and rendt it accordingly. The project is an international one, as it is thought, with some justice, that travellers in a foreign country are very apt to lose filings.

The International Steeping Car Company have promised that all objects found ownerless in their cars shall be forwarded to the office of the "Eureka," and the police of several Continental countries have also promised their assistance. The police, it seems, think that this organization will remore certain kinds of thieving more difficult. Unless the country where there are subscribers, it is difficult to see how so mayledy a project is to work. It may not be known to every one that a great firm of locksmiths in London bas long kept a register of this kind for key-fires. You buy a numbered king bearing the firm's address; your name and address are entered opposite the number; and it you lose your keys the probabilities are that they will presently be returned to you from the locksmiths.
